PREFACE.

THROUGH the unwearied Industry and increasing Opulence of the Inhabitants of this Kingdom, the Roads in every Part of it are made so convenient for Travelling, that they are the Admiration of Foreigners, and the Pride of the Natives.

An easy Communication with every Part of the Kingdom being thus opened, the Traveller, accommodated with the most essential Requisites for the Performance of his Journey, has nothing left to desire but such a Pocket-Companion as might best direct him in the Way he would chuse to go. This we have in Part already supplied him with, by the New and Accurate Description of the Roads.

To complete our Plan, by giving the Traveller every Assistance that he might possibly want, we have compiled with great Labour, and we trust with much Accuracy, this Second Part, which, although rendered so commodious, comprises above FIFTY THOUSAND Distances. These are digested in so simple and plain a Manner, that the Number of Miles any Place is distant from another, may be discovered with as much Ease and Expedition as two Words can be found in a common Dictionary; a Work hitherto much wanted, and only to be supplied by a tedious, and, in many Instances, fruitless Search into Books and Maps, which, not being portable, are of no Use, when there is most Occasion for their Assistance.

Though the Advantages of these Tables are sufficiently obvious, yet we may observe, that they will be found useful to the Trader at Home, as well as the Traveller on the Road. The Trader will, on Inspection, inform himself of the intermediate Distance of any two Places, and thereby judge how to convey his Orders with the most Expedition, and least Expence. The Traveller will find the Compass he must make to visit any Place or Places which he may be desirous of taking in the Course of his Journey; and likewise will be enabled, at setting out, to form an Estimate of his Time and Expence, by calculating, with the greatest Exactness, the Number of Miles he must travel, though the Tour he proposes to make should be ever so much about or irregular. Those who have experienced how various, and often irreconcileable, have been the best Accounts they could procure of the Distance of Places on their Journey, and how vexatious in their Consequences, will readily acknowledge the Utility of a Work of this Kind.

To find the Distance between any two Places, the following general Rule must be constantly observed;

As the Names of Places on the Top of the Page, as well as thoſe down the Side, are diſpoſed Alphabetically, that Place which in Order of the Alphabet comes firſt, muſt be always looked for on the Top, and the other on the Side of the Page. Thus, to find the Diſtance between Warwick and Leiceſter, look for Leiceſter in the Top Columns, and Warwick in the Side;—between Cambridge and Oxford, look for Cambridge on the Top, and Oxford on the Side; and ſo on in every Inſtance.

Let us ſuppoſe a Traveller, who being at York, wants to go to Huntingdon: Huntingdon coming in Alphabetical Order before York, he looks for that Place in the Top of the Pages, by turning them over till he comes to letter H, where he finds Huntingdon between Hul—Kin; turning then his Eye down the Pages for York, he will find in the line even with York, and directly under Huntingdon, the Figures 136, which is the Number of Miles York is diſtant from Huntingdon. But ſuppoſe further, that he ſhould wiſh to take Lincoln in his way, and would know how much his Journey would be increaſed thereby; proceeding in the ſame Manner, he finds the Diſtance from York to Lincoln to be 72 Miles, and from Lincoln to Huntingdon 71, which added together make 143 Miles, or 7 more than the direct Road from York to Huntingdon.

Though all the Towns, &c. in the different Tables are only repetitions of thoſe in the firſt, yet, the Names of the Counties in this Edition, are added to each Table, to ſave the Reader the trouble of referring to the Beginning of the Book. To know what County any Town at the Top of any one of the Tables is in, recourſe muſt be had to the Beginning of that Table.

The additional Diſtances are placed at the End of each Table; and ſo contrived as to fall either immediately under the Alphabet of that Table, or that of the oppoſite Page.

All the Diſtances to Parkgate are reckoned through Cheſter, without croſſing either the Dee or Merſey; and all the Diſtances from the Southern and Weſtern Parts of England to Liverpool are reckoned through Warrington.

The Diſtances from the ſeveral Places in England to thoſe in the North of Scotland, are ſometimes reckoned through Carliſle, and ſometimes through Edinburgh, according as the former or latter Route is the neareſt.

N. B. The Diſtances from London to all the Cities, Borough, Market, and Sea-port Towns in England and Wales, are given in the Firſt Part of the Book of Roads; to which recourſe muſt be had when the Diſtance to or from London is required.
